

* FICTION * POETRY * SCREENPLAY * MEMOIR * PERSONAL ESSAY

The Western Pennsylvania Writing Project and the Pittsburgh Cultural Trust are proud to announce a Young Writers Institute located in the heart of the Cultural District.

What? The Young Writers Institute is a creative workshop for students who enjoy writing. Explore multiple genres in a supportive, stimulating environment. The program concludes with a reading and celebration of writing published in student anthologies. Tuition is $250. Scholarships available.

Who? All interested writers, grades 4-12.

When? Six Saturdays, January 30th-March 6th, 2010.
Grades 4-8 meet from 10AM-1PM, and Grades 9-12 meet from 12-3PM.

Where? The Pittsburgh Cultural Trust Building at 803 Liberty Avenue in the heart of the Cultural District. This recently renovated space includes classrooms, studios, and a three-story performance space.

Why? To develop the inner writer and to have fun working with poets, fiction writers, artists and friends!

For more information about the Young Writers Institute, please visit: <http://www.wpawritingproject.org/forstudents.htm> or contact the Western Pennsylvania Writing Project at 412-624-6557 or wpwp@pitt.edu